In May 2017 LUC students completed the Grand Survey, giving their feedback on the programme as a whole, but also the other aspects of LUC. College Council and Programme Council have both analysed the results and have provided College Board and Programme Board respectively with their recommendations. This has resulted in the following changes:

Programme
- GC: Diversity has been completely redesigned
- The first year programme has been made more challenging. The workload and level for the Mathematics courses has increased.
- A fourth elective will be added to the first year programme; History of Science will no longer be compulsory.
- GPH staff are teaching in the GC courses (2 groups of Prosperity this year, next year also in Diversity)
- Discussion about capstone and capstone preparation has led to some changes that will be implemented next academic year in order to better prepare the students for a larger project.
- Each mathematics course has a student-assistant in the current academic year.

College
- More color on floor 2 has been introduced with the curtains. Beyond Arts has recently submitted a proposal for art throughout the building. Several of their suggestions will be adopted. More plants have been added.
- Classrooms have been opened in the evenings for study and student activities
- To increase the number of study spaces, the Royal Library has been contacted to see if a special agreement could be reached. Unfortunately they were disinclined to go into a special agreement with LUC only.
- SLC’s are working even more very closely together with the SLO-RA system, including training sessions. The information in the student handbook will be updated to further clarify the roles.
- A project officer has been appointed to improve information on career orientation activities, connections with the city of The Hague, internships and alumni. First steps for data collection have been made.
- The housing situation is part of a long procedure to simplify the procedures. Kim Duistermaat has updated the community in the College Assemblies.
