MEETING CHILDREN'S RIGHTS LEADERS @ LEIDEN LAW

MASTER OF LAWS: ADVANCED STUDIES IN INTERNATIONAL CHILDREN'S RIGHTS

MEETING CHILDREN'S RIGHTS LEADERS

In the final stages of your participation in the Master of Laws: Advanced Studies in International Children's Rights, we offer you the opportunity to meet global children's rights leaders in a special series called 'Meeting Children's Rights Leaders @ Leiden Law'. In the course of May and June, you are all kindly invited to participate in live sessions with leading experts, including representatives of UN agencies, international civil society organisations and research institutes. The aim of the meeting is to establish a conversation between advanced children's rights students and the experts on children's rights challenges in light of COVID-19. This special series forms part of the programme and is compulsory for all students. We wish you inspiring meetings and hope that this special series provides you with ample opportunities to broaden your horizon even further.
