

Your opinion matters!

Astronomy master's programme

The Astronomy master's programme hosts over 100 students. At the Education Office Astronomy, we make a daily effort to guarantee high-quality education for every single Astronomy student. Your feedback is of vital importance to us!

How can you give us feedback?

- ▷ Through the Education Committee
- ▷ Through evaluations after every course
- ▷ Directly through our study advisor
- ▷ Through the National Student Survey (NSE)

National Student Survey (NSE)

Every year in February, you will receive a request to complete the National Student Survey (NSE). Your answers to this questionnaire give us an impression of how we perform compared to other Astronomy programmes in the Netherlands and to other master's programmes within our faculty and university. This is valuable for the education programme, but also for future students.

Take the survey!

Share your opinion and complete the NSE. Follow the link in the message in your uMail or go to the NSE website and enter your uMail address to receive a new link.

What we do with your feedback

Your suggestions and ideas help us to further improve our Astronomy master's programme. We do this together with you as a student, among others through the Education Committee. Some examples of what we did in the past year:

- ▷ Facilities: upgrade of lecture rooms and shared spaces with new furniture, new audiovisual equipment, plants and panoramas on the walls; coffee cards for students.
- ▷ Information from the programme: clear structures and learning objectives in course descriptions.
- ▷ Career preparation: Astronomy career meetings focused on both PhD and non-research careers, explicit focus on soft skills trained in each course.

Tips for the NSE

- ▷ Take your time to complete the survey
- ▷ Put your experiences in the right context

Together we keep on improving the Astronomy master's programme in Leiden!
